Social and Personal

SOCIETY went one way last night, and that was led to the home of Mrs. Aubin L. Boulware, 1 East Franklin Street, where the debut reception of her daughter, Miss Janie Preston Boulware, was held.

The spacious first floor suite of rooms in the Boulware home were thrown open and decorated throughout in pink, the debutante color. Pink chrysanthemums, pink carnations and pink roses were massed against palms and ferns and intertwined with Southern smilax. Mantels banked with green chowder roses clustered in their centers, and a basket held a superb shower of pink roses in the dining room.

Mrs. William R. Beale, of Buchanan, most pleasantly remembered in Richmond through her association with the Virginia Exposition in 1907, introduced her niece, Miss Boulware, Mrs. Boulware, on account of her delicate health, not being present.

Aubin L. Boulware, the brother of the debutante, received with Mrs. Beale, who wore black Chantilly lace and net with beautiful heirloom pearls. Miss Boulware was very girlish and charming in elf, clinging white. She held a shower of white rose buds, and heaped on a table beside here were flowers of all imaginable hues sent by friends in honor of the most joyous occasion in a young girl's life.

The reception made a most brilliant opening for a week crowded with important social events, in all of which Miss Boulware will play her part.

To personal charm and many accomplishments she adds the further interest of being, through her father and mother, a representative of people who have always stood for the best and highest in their native State, socially and historically.

TOWN DANCE IN TOWN HALL

Everybody Goes and Everybody Has a Good Time

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Milwaukee, Wis., November 28.—Cosmopolitanism was the distinguishing feature of Milwaukee's municipal dance in the city hall of the public auditorium, under the auspices of the local Socialist administration, which has enlisted the support of many of the city's best known philanthropists.

It was cosmopolitanism, not only of race and creed, but of social standing. There were present those who have all the advantages of life and others who have not been so fortunate.

Some came in motors and private carriages; others rode in a public service vehicle and still others walked. Truly, it was a "town dance in the town hall" and all had a genuine good time.

The "hall dance" masculine or feminine was officially abolished. Many young women showed their independence of the formality of male escorts by organizing themselves into parties.

The Young Women's Christian Association attended en masse, under the chaperonage of several obliging young married couples. Members of the University Club and the Young Men's Christian Association and other masculine organizations were present.

In order that no one might be embarrassed by the want of proper introduction, the chief floor managers, the Rev. H. H. Jacobs, warden of the University Settlement, and George Wittich, director of physical education of the public schools, acted as official "introducers."

The grand march started promptly at 7:30 o'clock, led by Louis W. Witz, the oldest dancing master in the country, who, at the age of eighty-two years, professes himself to be still a young man as far as his health and vigor are concerned. He was followed by Mayor and Mrs. Seidel.

There was no liquor sold during the dance, but refreshment of the most varied variety were served in an adjoining hall in the same building.

DR. LYMAN ABBOTT TO MAKE PHI BETA KAPPA ADDRESS

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Williamsburg, Va., November 28.—The annual celebration of the Phi Beta Kappa Society, the first Greek letter fraternity in America, will be held next Monday night in the chapel of William and Mary College, the speaker of the occasion being Rev. Lyman Abbott, D. D., editor of the Outlook. Dr. Abbott's subject will be "The Religious Life of a Nation."

In view of the fact that Dr. Abbott has been recently criticized on his attitude on certain religious questions, the address at William and Mary next week may be of much more than ordinary importance.

Dr. Abbott has also accepted the invitation to address the Brotherhood of St. Andrew in Bruton Parish Church next Sunday night. The Brotherhood will hold its annual service that day, and new members will be initiated.

GIBBONS AROUSES SUFFRAGISTS' IRE

Mrs. Catt Says He Is Unfair in His Attitude Toward Them.

HIS INFORMATION FAULTY

Mrs. Brannan Quotes Cardinal Moran's Praise of Votes for Women.

New York, November 28.—The suffragists of New York had something to say about Cardinal Gibbons' criticisms of woman suffrage before the students of St. Catherine's Normal Institute in Baltimore, on Friday. Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president of the International Woman's Suffrage Alliance, resented what she considered the cardinal's unfairness. "It is a very unfair attitude of mind," she said, "for a man to condemn a whole class of women because a few have displeased him."

The Rev. Anna Howard Shaw, D. D., president of the National Woman's Suffrage Association, was more emphatic.

"I agree with Cardinal Gibbons in advising the students not to follow women who are mannish," she said. "I do not agree with him when he tells them not to follow women who are mannish, but merely human beings interested in all that concerns humanity. The thing that is of the greatest concern to all humanity is government. Every normal human being must be interested in his own government and the only normal human beings are suffragists."

"So far as Cardinal Gibbons himself is concerned, I cannot see why a man who is at the head of a great church which has distinct orders setting apart, to live in celibacy, thousands and tens of thousands of men and women who might be making homes, should direct his attention to making homes for other people. We will take care of our own homes if we have the ballot to do it with."

"As I read the statement Cardinal Gibbons made to the students of St. Catherine's Normal Institute," said Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch, of the Woman's Political Union, "that the woman's place was the home, I could not understand why he should have anything to do with preparing young women for teaching a profession which takes them out of the home. I am amazed that he cannot see the wickedness of his course. Of course, if he turns these young women out, he must expect that they will be affected by modern evolution. Every political or church institution which sets itself against the logical development of democracy will certainly suffer."

"Just as the churches in Spain and Portugal have set themselves on the side of the retrograde movement and have experienced the natural results, so it will be with an individual who sets himself or herself against modern evolution. They will suffer from their own mistakes. If the Catholic Church sends its young women out to work in the world the young women themselves will find that they must accept outside conditions as they are, and they will see that it is to the interest of every worker to influence development of the Legislature."

Mrs. William M. Ivins, who spent a hard summer refuting anti-suffrage arguments, implied that the cardinal's views were antiquated and hardly worthy of her metal.

"I can only say," she said, "that the suffrage cause is simply languishing for a new argument to fight."

Mrs. John Winters Brannan, when asked her opinion, quoted Cardinal Moran, of Australia. "Don't you think it is very nice to have one cardinal answer another?" she asked. "I think it is rather stylish," she laughed.

Cardinal Gibbons only speaks from imagination," she continued. "Cardinal Moran speaks from experience. He has been an intelligent observer of the results of giving women the ballot from the first, and he says it has had a most beneficial effect both upon the state and upon the family. To quote him, he says: 'If any woman thinks that tying on her bonnet and going to the polls to cast her vote is going to make her unwomanly she is a very silly creature.'"

Vacancy on Orphanage Board Board.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Lynchburg, Va., November 28.—The acceptance by Rev. Joseph R. Mr. Sevier went from here to the Alexandria charge.

SCOTT INTENDED TO END HIS LIFE

Planned Suicide, but Presence of Guard Prevented Him From Doing So.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Roanoke, Va., November 28.—Comp

Scott, the sixty-year-old negro who six weeks ago cut W. W. Spence, a railroad yard conductor, to death on the Virginia yards in this city, and was taken to Lynchburg to prevent possible lynching, was brought here early to-day and placed on trial in the Corporation Court.

Scott's attorneys offered to compromise the case, and take a verdict of eighteen years in the penitentiary for manslaughter, but relatives of the slain man would not agree to this, and the trial was begun without a jury, the evidence being heard by Judge W. M. Staples, who will render the verdict.

A number of witnesses testified to-day for the prosecution, and more testimony will be heard tomorrow.

Scott declared to-day that he planned to commit suicide last night, but was prevented from carrying this intention into execution because of the continued presence of a guard at his cell door in the Lynchburg jail. He was terror-stricken on his way to Roanoke, evidently fearing rough treatment here. There was no demonstration, however, and the trial is proceeding quietly, although there are more spectators in attendance than at any trial here in six years.

NO LIVES LOST

Prospectors and Homesteaders Escape Glacial Floods.

Cordova, Alaska, November 28.—Although several prospectors and loggers were at work along the shores of the Bering River, when the glacial floods swept down the Valley several days ago, the Forestry Department believes that no lives were lost. The high hills that border the river made it easy for the prospectors and homesteaders to get out of the zone. Forest Ranger Johnson will leave Cordova next week for a tour of the flood-swept district to ascertain the extent of the damage. He will try to determine the origin of the flood.

Five great glacial lakes form a chain between Carbon Mountain and Bering Glacier. Those familiar with conditions in that district believe the action of the glacier cut under the rim of one or more of the lakes, causing them to empty with a rush into the valley below. The chain of lakes is ten miles long. The lakes are about a quarter of a mile wide, and have an average depth of 200 feet.
